'Counting with Pictures' comes with over 100 different counting exercises for you and your children to enjoy. These are more than just simple counting pictures, however, as nearly every set of exercises has multiple things for your little ones to point out and count. For example, one set asks you to count how many cows there are with sunglasses, how many cows there are with cowboy hats on, as well as how many cows there are in total. Another set asks you to count how many grassy and sandy islands you can see, before then adding some islands with one tree and some with two, giving you five different things to count overall on each page. There is even a chance for some basic maths at the end, with a set of pictures that asks you to count pictured numbers as well as counting what the numbers shown add up to. The pictures and questions get trickier and more involving as the deck goes on, but if you feel like your young ones will struggle with the more difficult exercises then they can always just count how many objects there are on the screen and enjoy the vibrantly-coloured fun of the deck.

ABOUT PHLASHCARDZ

Flash cards are great. Flash cards are fantastic in fact! But it can be a pain to take them out of the house with you as there's only so much space in pockets and purses, and you've probably got enough to remember as it is. Phlashboardz, however, allow you to keep as many decks of flash cards with you as you want - safely tucked away in your phone or tablet - meaning that you can turn a bus journey or a wait at the airport into a fun learning time for you and your children. You can also load them on to your children's own reading devices, so that they have apps to play with that are as educational as they are fun. They'll even work on computers and smart TVs if you've got a room full of eager little learners just waiting to be educated. There's just so many ways to have fun with them!

So, whether you're enjoying them at home or away, Phlashboardz are the smart way of organising your children's development.
