The Defeat of the Luftwaffe: The Eastern Front 1941-45, A Strategy for Disaster Jonathan Trigg

In 1939 and 1940 the Nazi blitzkrieg crushed Poland and the West. This was a new type of warfare with air and ground forces working hand in glove and sweeping away all resistance. On the ground the new panzer divisions symbolized this combat revolution, and in the air it was the all-conquering Luftwaffe with its fleets of Stuka dive bombers.

When Hitler turned to the East in 1941, the Luftwaffe turned with him, spearheading the largest invasion in world history as the Wehrmacht launched Operation Barbarossa to annihilate Stalin's Soviet Union. Within weeks they had destroyed thousands of Red Air Force planes and ruled the skies, and yet less than four years later that same Red Air Force was flying unopposed over Hitler's burning Reich Chancellory in Berlin and his much-vaunted Luftwaffe lay in utter ruins. How did this happen?

Using original research and exceptional illustrations, including photos and diagrams of planes from both sides, this book explains how the Nazi Luftwaffe's certain victory in the East was transformed into ashes through incompetence, misjudgment and hubris.
