More than ever homebuyers need to better understand today's mortgage process. I feel our readers will benefit both from the book and website at homebuggy.com on their journey to purchase a home. I wrote the book because I feel homebuyers have lost some of the values that our country was built upon, and now is floundering without. If we can get individual homeowners back on track, in other words, we can collectively get America back on track! Told through real-life stories of the author's clients, the book offers proven advice on saving for a home, boosting your credit score and getting a home loan while self-employed. It reveals what lenders are looking for and what you should be looking for when you're shopping for a new home all infused with positive encouragement and an emphasis on personal responsibility. The author, veteran mortgage professional Bonnye Williams of Weatherford, Texas is known as a home finance expert on everything from mountain resorts to starter homes and condominiums to horse ranches. I've been doing this for 30 years, and I got tired of watching my clients struggle with the same old challenges in getting financed, Williams said. I wanted to reach more of them at a time. Mike Enzi, US Senator and member of the Senate Finance Committee, says of the book, This is important money information, written so it's easy to understand. It's designed for our times and should be a course for every student. This could have kept a lot of people out of trouble.
